

Special reno stimulus pack

WITH substantial government incentives, low interest rates and a number of great buying opportunities, first-home owners are exercising their buying power making them the most active buying group at present.

While they may not be 100 per cent content with the state of their investment, they are seeing the lower rates and availability of affordable properties as an opportunity to get out of the rental market, and to leave "paying dead money" behind them.

To help them on their way, northern beaches business Budget Home Makeover is offering a special renovation stimulus package for under $20,000 for first-home buyers.

Director Stevie Rose said her business will offer a property consultation, suggest a number of great makeover options, and organise the tradespeople to professionally transform the property.
